

Dear All

We are writing to inform you about an exciting new educational initiative from EMEUNET and EULAR that will be launched soon.

In recent years, social media in general and Twitter in particular is used more and more frequently by professionals to network, share information, engage users and educate quickly and with ease and as such has enormous benefits. With this in mind, we will use this platform to launch an online Journal Club, facilitated by experienced rheumatologists, the aim of which is to allow Twitter users to participate in discussion with colleagues around the world about key papers in the field.

When possible, we will also have key authors of the selected paper online to help answer your questions and to discuss their research. The launch of this initiative highlights the beginning of an exciting time in social media, where large groups of rheumatologists from all across the world can come together to discuss an article in an informal way. We therefore hope you will join us for our first online journal club.

24th of May 2017 at 8PM GMT / 9pm CET (duration 1 hour)

The journal club will be preceded by a Newsletter issue including a press review of rheumatology literature published in the last two months and the details of the article selected for the Journal club.

Stay tuned for more details about our first journal club article in the coming weeks but in the meantime don't forget to follow us on Twitter @EULARJC, @EMEUNET and @eular_org to keep up to date with Rheumatology news and events.